

The Top Ten Reasons Not
to Wait until just before
Class to Print your Project

10. All of the other slackers will be trying to print just before class, too.

9. The printer will have run out of paper during the previous class.

8. The stapler will have no staples.

7. You will discover, just before class, that your file is missing from your flash drive.

6. You will discover that you have lost your flash drive.

5. The deadline-detection circuit in your workstation will activate, and it will not boot.

4. The deadline-detection circuit in the printer will activate, and it will not print.

3. You will discover that you forgot something important in your program.

2. The deadline is at the beginning of class, not near the beginning of class.

Finally, the number one reason to print out your project before coming to class the day of the deadline:

1. Late projects will not be accepted.
